DALLAS (Jan. 31, 2019) – With the construction of a tailor-made facility in Dallas completed, International Depository Services of Texas – a privately-owned division of Dillon Gage Metals – expands its footprint to meet the increased demand for precious metals storage in the Lone Star state. Texas’ first and largest precious metals depository operated by professionals with decades of precious metals, security and depository experience moves to the state-of-the-art facility in Dallas. IDS of Texas is IDS Group’s third depository location serving institutional and individual investors nationally and abroad. It is the only depository in Texas that offers cold storage for cryptocurrency wallets.

“IDS of Texas opened November 2017 and with the demand we were seeing, we needed to expand quickly,” said Terry Hanlon, president of Dillon Gage Metals. “The new location is the largest depository in the state, and we have room to grow.”

The new facility, featuring state-of-the-art custom construction and Class III vaults, is located minutes from Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport. It features a UL-rated, multiredundant security system monitored in real time, 24/7, by off-site security specialists, as well as on-site armed police officers.

All assets stored at IDS of Texas are insured with Lloyd’s of London, the world’s leading provider of specialized asset insurance. IDS of Texas adheres to stringent “dual control” policies, including daily activity and full monthly audits of all precious metals inventory stored at the facility.

IDS of Texas stores physical gold, silver, platinum and palladium products, rare and certified coins, as well as wallets containing cryptocurrency assets such as bitcoin, bitcoin cash, Litecoin, Ethereum and Ripple. The depository is also a storage solution for physical metals held in self-directed IRAs and maintains the strictest of client confidentiality policies with multilevel security and data access.

IDS of Texas sets itself apart from the competition with its unparalleled customer service, fully allocated and segregated storage accounts, custom depository reporting solutions, inventory management and business logistics solutions. IDS Group depositories are the only precious metals storage facilities to provide online access and account management in real time, 24/7, via its proprietary VaultDirect platform. Through VaultDirect, clients can view inventory holdings and transaction history, request shipments and transfers, and much more. From individual, private investor and dealer accounts to institutional accounts such as master-sub relationships, IDS Group provides storage solutions tailored to the needs of the client.

“Investors need to know that the storage of physical precious metals and crypto assets must be handled by an experienced team with core competencies in precious metals logistics and with fully equipped secured facilities,” said Alisa Moen, president of IDS Group. “IDS Group builds on Dillon Gage’s four decades of experience in the care, custody, privacy and security of assets and data related to institutional and individual precious metals investors and crypto currency holdings. These are IDS Group’s core competencies, and we are thrilled to bring it to the state of Texas.”

International Depository Services Group – or IDS Group – also offers locations in New Castle, Delaware, and Ontario, Canada, and maintains several precious metals accreditations for its locations including being approved for the storage of all four precious metals by the COMEX/CME and the Intercontinental Exchange Futures U.S./ICE for its Delaware location. IDS of Canada and IDS of Delaware are also associate members of the London Bullion Market Association, meeting the most stringent security and compliance requirements, and are active members with the Industry Council for Tangible Assets and the International Precious Metals Institute.
